

What is Unique about the Artworks at PhotosForGifts.com?

Consider it our gesture of love for art pieces that have inspired us throughout these years that makes us want to show it to the world!

As creative individuals who love art, at PhotosForGifts.com, we've always enjoyed all forms of expression that could spark thought-provoking conversations about humanity, the things that bind us, and ones that bring us to think about society. For the most part, our philosophy when examining art is to look for pieces that provide us a clear perspective on how we have moved forward as a society.

Through wars and times of peace, people across the globe have persevered. And art has been the medium through which we can gain perspective on our victories and failures.

From all that we've viewed, one thing we've noticed is the division of assets; of simpler things such as luck and fate, but ones that make all the difference.

Having been endowed with the countless blessings in life, we've always understood to be grateful for what we have, and to be aware that while we may have the luxury and time to focus on art and its message. Many around us do not. PhotosForGifts.com is designed to help us do more for those who do not have the resources to enrich their lives.

Following the notion of “Give Back to Others,” we devised our entire collection to match various quotations, each which could stimulate our thoughts and feelings about life.

A Personal Experience

Created by Paul Rogers and Sophia Lengyel Rogers, PhotoForGifts.com was designed to collect funds so that we could help charitable organizations in our community. We aim to donate 10 percent of our net profits to various programs that are devoted to providing a helping hand to those less fortunate.

Our motivation has been our worldly experience. For Paul Rogers, his work as an attorney and a conflict mediator in Massachusetts provided him with the experience needed to learn how the less fortunate were becoming hopeless. For Sophia, her work at the U.S. embassy in Budapest provided her with a different view on charity and compassion, and what different cultures and societies did to help those in need.

Thus, PhotosForGifts.com was born.

Buying From PhotosforGifts.com—The Online Art Museum™

Our gallery includes beautiful portraits and landscape photos depicting unusual scenes, people, water scenes, bridges, flowers and gardens, animals, and so much more, all of which are available for customization at affordable rates.

So, for those who want to gain something by giving back to the community, have a look at our photo art, and do your part in helping the community.